

Pope Hypocrite and religious envy syndrome

In the most flagrant manner possible the Roman Catholic Pope, as if to compete with the recent brazen hypocrisy of the Dalai Fraud, ended a speech in the U.S. with Bush's favourite concluding remark, "God bless America" - suck, suck! We are aware religious leaders live sheltered lives but the civilian death toll in Iraq, now exceeding one million, with an additional four million displaced persons and a totally ruined state, is difficult for even a Pope to ignore!

We would all like to know which God is doing the 'blessing,' Ratzinger, you shameless hypocrite and loathsome fascist! One thing is CLEAR, it certainly is not the prince of peace, Jesus Christ, who the Pope claims to represent!

'God bless America' my grandmother's wrinkled arse! Integrity is a word the world has little use for these days but such are the times in which we live! People today tolerate the most obvious lies, brazen hypocrisies and all manner of vile crimes from their leaders.

The Pope openly aligned himself with the world's number one mass murderer, George W Bush! In an address to the UN the Pope called for other nations to intervene when states fail to protect human rights. OK, fine; form a coalition to intervene in the Iraq holocaust; there is no greater human rights travesty in the world today!

DO IT, Ratzinger! Demonstrate to the world what type of religious leader you are, form a coalition to stop the carnage in Iraq - talk is cheap and hypocrisy even cheaper.

It is little wonder that today's religions have lost their appeal and become irrelevant. With men like the Dalai Fraud and Ratzinger leading their respective faiths, who needs imaginary devils?
