We need not go into details or add to the media saturation of the past months; all the sordid information and vile tactics in the race for the leadership of the vilest nation on earth have been served to us for breakfast, lunch and dinner, ad nauseam!

Senator Barack Obama

In a nation of approximately three hundred million, the three contenders, Clinton, Obama and McCain do not represent any clear majority; the most notable exception is a Latino candidate, but in America today we can only expect dynastic or traditional extensions of power and no prizes for placing McCain and Clinton in that category - but what of the dark horse, WHO PROMISES MUCH but?

American democracy and elections have been a farce from day one - or rather an entertainment spectacle that inevitably concludes with the favourite of the establishment ascending to the presidency - would any thinking person imagine otherwise? However, one exception to that rule occurred in the recent past, the presidency of Jack Kennedy. How long did it take for the conservative establishment to 'remedy' that situation? The USA shoots its own presidents, so let's all dream democracy! 'A change of rulers is the joy of fools' or if you prefer, 'things must change in order to stay the same!'

But to return to this slightly known quantity, Barack Obama. We need only know that Clinton and McCain represent the same forces with only slightly different approaches, however, Obama overtly threatens to overturn the status quo and reform a truly decaying, dysfunctional, destructive, nihilistic system!

History dictates that Obama is either lying or will be eliminated but the choice is clear, if only for the reason that McCain and Clinton offer no hope!

The choice is simple, certain death and ruination or the chance of renewal - notwithstanding renewal is a very slim chance indeed!

Best of luck, America!
