

Serbian elections: Russian ally full of shit!

There is no shortage of commentary regarding the Serbian elections nor is there any shortage of misinformation. Western 'news' media were quick to announce a 'victory' for the pro-Western party led by Tadic; however, while Tadic outpolled his primary nationalist opponent he is clearly unable to govern in his own right, a minor fact the western 'news' media 'overlooked!'

At this stage neither of the two major parties are able to govern; the decision rests with the minor parties, especially Milosevic's Socialist Party - a bitter irony indeed for Western interests now forced to deal with the Socialists in order to govern!

But to the real issue that turned the tide against the nationalists. Just prior to the elections the EU signed a much publicised agreement (SAA) with Tadic 'promising' EU membership, economic aid and an assortment of "benefits" providing that Serbia relinquishes its rights and allows itself to be further sodomised by Western interests - as if the amputation of Kosovo isn't enough!

Prior to that tactical manoeuvre the two major parties were evenly divided so it would seem that Serbia is willing to sell itself like a cheap Balkan whore, notwithstanding the FACT that its strategic position guarantees its economic prosperity in the future! But first Kosovo would have to be reclaimed and the West FORCED to negotiate energy deals and pipeline corridor licenses - a sovereign nation's business prerogative!

Russia, the toothless and clawless bear, should have made it very clear immediately the EU attempted to bribe Serbian youth that it would initiate immediate action to restore stolen Serbian territories! That threat would have countered the bribe 'sweetener' and boosted the confidence of Serbs. The EU bribe amounts to a paedophile offering candy to its victim! However, in the absence of a counter strategy the tide turned in favour of Tadic.

[Where are you Russia, the world is becoming aware that your promises are hollow and that you are unable to support AND DEFEND your allies, THEREFORE YOURSELF?]

Serbs have been misled and cheated since NATO's illegal bombing of the civilian city of Belgrade. Serbia actually holds the winning hand providing it remains undivided and maintains focus on national (everyone's) interests - the old adage is absolutely true that 'only unity saves the Serbs.'

If Serbs took time to think, instead of squabble they would realise what a powerful strategic, geopolitical position they hold. This is America's and the EU's worst nightmare that Serbia will wake up to its inalienable RIGHTS and maintain its national interests, which are neither with Russia nor the West but a balance of both!

I sincerely hope the blood of my ancestors has not been spilled in vain. Serbia has never relinquished its identity in the face of the most severe oppression in the past; should we now sell our souls for what really amounts to a whorish song?
