

Rudd's avoidance of major issues hits new high!

Kevin Rudd's now pathological avoidance of the major issues facing Australia has hit a new, if not absurd, high! Facing the wholesale rape of our nation's natural resources by Transnational mining companies; the worst drought on record; rapidly escalating fuel costs; the failure of free-market capitalism and a geopolitically, inappropriate relationship with a failing superpower, what is Rudd's response? He 'tackles' the earth-shattering crisis of childhood obesity and launches an attack on a world renowned Australian Artist! But we should all be grateful for small mercies; the upside is he hasn't declared war on ingrown toenails!

Well the jig is up, Kevin; when an awkward, incompetent dud is revealed at a social gathering the crowd cries, 'who brung him' and everyone ducks for cover not wanting to be associated! If only it was as simple with a badly chosen Prime Minister, but maybe it is!

After half a year of the Rudd 'government' all we have seen is a prancing, ineffective show pony leading a mob of no-hopers, with Peter Garrett, Minister of the Backflip, leading the pack!

I know you have been trained to do otherwise, Kevin, but it's time to get your teeth into it; the people are familiar with your ridiculous media diversions and distractions. Australians are hurting and require a leader who is able to deal with crisis situations. The future promises a very rough ride and Australia can ill-afford an ineffective performer at the helm!

It is better to step down NOW than go down in history as Australia's most incompetent PM - you should be aware of the impending crises we all must soon CONFRONT.

We have been trained to function at peak performance in crisis situations, Kevin, what about you?
