At a dinner George W Bush once described the 'Barons' of free market capitalism as the "have mores," as distinct from 'the haves' and 'have nots.' He sure got that right! With oil set to reach $200 a barrel the 'have mores' are acquiring EVER MORE wealth at a pace and in amounts hitherto unimaginable, even at the time dubya made his infamous remark.

Western free market capitalism only favours the wealthy, as market commodity speculators have proven today. The market has failed society but benefited the few, small players have effectively been locked out of the 'treasure rooms.' Those domains are now controlled by SUPER wealthy speculators who could care less for anyone but themselves; it's the competitive American way, isn't it?

Wealth is accumulated today at such rapidity it is becoming disadvantageous to sleep! Recession only exists for suckers, losers and puppet governments too afraid or incapable of intervening and regulating markets. Meanwhile the losers, sheeple, common herd, morons, etc, continue to accept their tragic lot. Amazingly, the 'have nots'/losers/sheeple/morons/slaves/ cocksuckers etc, allow themselves to be talked into believing that it's 'natural' for criminal insiders to fuck them up the arse and pillage everything for themselves! The people have not yet realised that the wealth these scurrilous insiders accumulate via privileged or criminal activity cannot be justified under any other circumstances - ain't it so, Bobby 'vacuum-head' Jo?

The sheeple have not yet determined the wealth these Barons possess does NOT reflect their actual skill-level or (by inference) claims of 'superiority' over the general population. What it does reflect however, is insider/cabal/elite/cliq*ue criminal collusion* or unfair advantage! Ya dummies!

Their EXTREME wealth, lack of regulation and the thorough incompetence of government guarantees free reign for free market Barons for a little longer. However, they will soon be victims of their own greed as they are creating the forces that will ultimately destroy them and the free market system they love -- c'est la gare!

The more these insatiable pigs destabilise the world the better - timing is everything, and as I was once taught by my Chinese tutor, the largest machine or mechanism can be brought down with a hairpin; I fuckin' love oriental philosophy, it's so subtle yet pragmatic -- moo!

We have pre-empted and anticipated the entire scenario and have not made one predictive miscalculation to date - what's your plan, sheeple?

By the way, the oil industry insider who tipped the $200/barrel oil price, only two weeks earlier, is now dead; according to media reports his untimely death occurred "after a short illness" - 'big mouthitis,' no doubt!

We have plans to satisfy, placate and channel the anger of the masses with group trials of CEOs and other Executives; justice will be swift and very entertaining; the people will roar with satisfaction.

You pigs were right about one thing, survival of the 'fittest' -- I can't wait!
