

Bush's America, ruination and desolation

Independent analysts and commentators could all laugh a satisfying laugh and sing the refrain of 'we told you so,' if we weren't committed professionals dedicated to serving the PUBLIC interest. Few citizens today need convincing that the Bush regime is the most incompetent in U.S. history. In a few short years Bush's mindless 'management' and aggressive policies have bankrupted the nation and ostracised the world. The economy has been thoroughly ruined, it is now beyond recovery in its old form. If it is to survive it must first die!

Criminals

A new economic paradigm based on sound principles - rather than placing a value on debt and allowing it to be traded using the 'bigger idiot than me' formula -- is required. Every first year economics student learns the value of distributed wealth; investing in infrastructure, production, labour/skills, which inturn increases savings allowing investments, which in turn boosts production and consumption in a balanced upward steady cycle of GROWTH - as is witnessed in China and other REGULATED economies. Real value is measured in real products and the means, labour/skills, to create those products and by the amount that is returned into the system as GROWTH.

Credit based systems diametrically oppose this model. However, credit is necessary but only under certain strict conditions. It must always be supported by real translatable wealth. Any deviation from sound economic principles results in failure, as is the case with the 'free;' unregulated or laissez-faire market now in its death throes.

Over a year ago we advised everyone to withdraw from a dying, corrupt and manipulated market place and invest in Real value, which could be managed directly -- as opposed to allowing market 'managers' to gamble with your hard-earned funds and superannuation.

[The market today puts the world's most famous and enduring Casinos to shame as a location for speculative (gambling) activity. That was never its purpose but Friedmanism had nowhere to go but to the pockets of greedy insiders, scammers and dealers - the 'free market' simply means giving the keys of the treasure room to thieves!]

Bush, as the RESPONSIBLE party, has no alternative but to continue LYING, deceiving and printing more toilet-paper money in a futile attempt to save the situation; however, his actions are only delaying the inevitable.

Bush's 'remedies' only DELAY INEVITABLE COLLAPSE! Bush has spent the nation into the grave and allowed scam artists to fog, dupe and rob average taxpayers in the process. Does this man literally have to shit in your mouths before you mobilise and converge on the Capital demanding his arrest for murder? [Deaths resulting from an illegal invasion are treated as murder.] Bush cannot be arrested for being an economic vandal and dunce!

The American economy is flat-lining and Bush continues to talk it up (see link); however, despite all his attempts to talk a corpse back to life, the corpse is fast losing its remaining body heat! Furthermore, he continues to spend like a maniac, the devil may care but George does not!

Bush clearly has no regard for the nation, its founding principles or the people he is supposed to SERVE!

Bush made it plain that he prefers the company of those he once referred to as the 'have mores;' precisely those scurrilous individuals that have raped and ruined the nation.

In the recent past the American people have converged on the Capital in times of national crisis. On each occasion the people have been successful in removing the blight from office and correcting the course of the nation. Today's crises are far more critical and urgent than those of the past; it is clear that nothing but the people will effect REAL CHANGE in the United States. Do not be beguiled, only the people have been successful in EFFECTING REAL CHANGE. Pretenders today only emphasise that fact!

We are One.
