

'Show me where you sat on the axe!'

It's hard not to be cynical in 'view' of the ubiquity of Sarah Palin's tits. The mess that Cheney-Bush have made of the economy has been background by tits; the unprovoked, illegal American cross-border attack into Pakistan hardly raised an eyebrow; Bush's Continuity of Government (COG) extending unprecedented executive powers for another year was barely noticed; Cheney planning WWII in the Ukraine, back page news -- the WORLD, however, continues to bob with Sarah Palin's tits!

Magdalene revealing wound -- Da Vinci

Arch-conservative media mogul Rupert Murdoch transformed his one newspaper business into a global media empire with precisely these cynical tactics. Present mindless sensationalist content to the mindless masses and then do what you like! And you thought the public was worth saving!

As distasteful as it is to some, the theories of Zionist Nazi ideologue, Leo Strauss, of the infamous Chicago group, which included laissez-faire failure, Milton Friedman -- have been proven correct. The masses, Strauss stated, are incapable of higher thought and should be managed for their own good by superior, 'benevolent' individuals.

The management method Strauss favoured was primarily the fear response! A collective enemy or 'monster' such as communism, terrorism, pandemic disease etc should be utilised to manipulate the masses to full advantage. However, this jaundiced worldview is not new and is easily traced to all sadistic despots, dictators/rulers throughout history; notwithstanding behaviourists and sadistic animal trainers are also familiar with these methods.

Populations are easily manipulated and marshalled into action via the fear response. I recall a weather balloon prompting the evacuation of an entire city office block soon after 9/11. People become extremely obedient when threatening circumstances exist.

Strauss went on to say that if fearful circumstances do not exist they should be created; 9/11, anthrax letters, (phantom) WMD etc are excellent examples.

Interestingly but not surprisingly two of Strauss' students, Paul Wolfowitz and Richard Perle, were deeply involved with the Bush administration while all the above events 'transpired,' but we know events unfolded exactly as the government informs us, ain't that right, Jethro?

There is nothing new under the sun including these cynical tricks/tactics. They were first utilised to great effect in the modern era by the Nazis. Hitler and Goebbels both delighted in deceiving the moronic masses and often competed to see who could more effectively trigger basic behavioural responses in the crowd.

No essential difference exists between Strauss' superior beings (Aryans), lowly non-Aryan slaves and the ruling interests and masses of today. Conservative strategists throughout the world have readily appropriated these methods. The carrot-stick, titillation-fear 'methods' continue to be exploited by cynical, conservatives today and are readily identifiable.

The use of collective archetypes, signs and symbols that directly address our primitive responses/emotions ALWAYS prove more effective than rhetorical methods - the appeal and POWER of unspoken language always overpowers the spoken!

You won't mind Cheney igniting WWII while you're busy with Palin's tits, will you?

Be-aware and only beware when you have ascertained REAL danger!

O, have you noticed the OVERT CRIMINALITY and REAL DANGER the Bush regime presents to the world, nope, too busy with tits and such?

Good luck!
