international / miscellaneous / commentary

Some stories do not require pages of elaboration; the event speaks clearer and louder than any journo could hope to 'pen.' Today the U.S. government was forced to bail out the 'competitive, individual, free market, laissez-faire,' CAPITALIST SYSTEM, which until now was considered second only to God! The USA and its ideological backbone is broken, as has been so painfully demonstrated by one of the largest scale government financial interventions in history - well done Milton Friedman!

The government was forced to purchase the monstrous debt incurred by the two largest housing credit institutions in the U.S. [We always knew they would have no choice.] Guess what dummies, you've all been done by the same people who invented the credit economy! They have made trillions at YOUR expense. Unregulated parasites have made trillions at the nations and people's expense, so let's all extol the virtues that have made this country a ruin! Any village idiot would have told you that 'human frailty' would guarantee EXPLOITATION in the absence of REGULATION. Don't believe the spin and jargon of thieving economists.

Just what did President Bush and VP Cheney know about managing the economy? Absolutely nothing! Ask Freddie and Fannie!

The world is paying dearly for allowing a single nation's currency to become the international standard. Conned again world! Can you hear the thieves in the White House and Fed, 'roll those presses, boys,' the world can't get enough of this green toilet paper!

O, if your wondering why the figures never balance, your digital transfer protocols have been breached! But please do keep tracing all those digital millions, watching your inept attempts at tracing provide us with endless hours of entertainment.

You would never guess where all that money goes, not in a trillion years! Didn't you know that your digital addiction is far worse than your oil addiction? What a gift!

For the price of a keyboard the world can be shaken - asymmetric paradise.

Greetz to old man Lao, 'ferrite' and all the crewz -- who quietly rule (the world).

As the old man said, the pigs would out-source themselves to death - too true? Who has the keys now?

The world belongs to those with the SKILL to take it! Think twice before abusing misfits in future. Others thrive on the genius YOU reject. You have hurt and damaged them long enough. They are now self-sustaining, self-promulgating -- no central leadership required! They are also very, very, angry! They do what you cannot - that about sums it up.

"The war is won or lost before the first battle begins" - Sun Tzu, The Art of War.

"I have cast fire upon the world, and look, I'm guarding it until it blazes" -- Jesus Christ, Gospel of Thomas.

Rant over - get fucked!
