Shoot the c..t

So far the only skill Henry Paulson and his fellow Banker, Wall St., elites have demonstrated is their ability to completely dominate the clueless government of the USA; a government so dependent on criminal free marketeers that it continues to rob the public on their demand!

Star-spangled BULLSHIT!

We all know the expression 'throwing good money after bad' -- the most explicit example of that old adage is evident today on Wall Street; I have lost count of the number of FAILED 'bailouts,' notwithstanding the never ending demands put on the public purse by the rogues that created the problem in the first instance; kick me if I can't add 2+2!

Financial cartels CONTINUE to devour the people's hard-earned money but who is accepting responsibility for Banking failures and the continuing brazen robbery of the public purse? No one, not a soul! Paulson and his cohorts have shifted responsibility onto - and here's the sting - the CLUELESS puppet government that is largely immune from the legal consequences of making bad decisions such as the irresponsible 'management' of public money! You could hardly blame a moron for being a moron especially when it was firmly established that the, 'mission accomplished,' President of the USA is a mindless moron! Notwithstanding others in high office were giving him a run for his 'known unknown,' 'bouquet of flowers,' money!

Puppet government, the perfect vehicle of rogues, as it presents a legitimate front and remains largely immune from numerous prosecutions that would otherwise affect the above-mentioned Financial racketeers who would be clearly liable for their scurrilous actions. These individuals would take a hammering under any REAL INVESTIGATION OR GOVERNMENT INQUIRY - but not a hint of a REAL investigation, I wonder why?

It is widely known that the private sector, over a few decades, besieged and took control of most 'democratic' governments around the world but most profoundly in the USA, where the marionette White House is something akin to Balinese shadow-puppet theatre!

In the absence of representative, democratic government -- the traditional means by which the people safeguard their interests and deliver justice -- the solution is clear. After herding these executives into Guantanamo-style detention and applying legal 'waterboarding' interrogation techniques, we would soon all learn exactly who is responsible for the current calamity and where all the good money has been stashed! George Bush made it all legal, dummies, so use the means at your disposal on those who deserve it most, you dumb fuck's!

Failing the above alternative there is always the traditional law of the old West that Bush invoked in reference to Bin Laden -- who could only dream of wreaking the degree of damage on the nation that Bankers have to date - "wanted dead or alive," just take 'em out and shoot 'em, ain't that right, Jesse?

Are you doodle dandies able to think at all? It wasn't too difficult arriving at the above REAL SOLUTIONS and nailing the rogues! But if you are unable to think, I suppose the traditional American solution may be your only alternative!

Continuing inaction on the part of the public would deliver untold pleasure to those in whose interests it is to plunge the world into deeper economic and social chaos; what could better justify the argument for drastically reducing the number of financial institutions and currencies currently in circulation? The current financial crisis is not accidental, of that you can be assured!

Good luck sheeple, baa' aa!
