

The Disease and the Cure

The first signs of alarm and panic from filthy rich elites have begun to reach the public via the mass media – how such material slipped through editorial vetting is not known but what is known is that Rupert and his fellow media moguls are not happy.

Donald Trump

A strange brew of fear, disdain and utter loathing seems to have prompted an outburst from one of America's richest! Ultra-right wing, laissez-faire capitalist and property tycoon, Donald Trump, has 'lashed out' – seven years too late -- at my hero, G W Bush, in what appears to be a feeble attempt to deflect attention and take heat off obscenely wealthy, social PARASITES such as himself. When the super-rich and real power brokers are threatened it seems the heads of ventriloquists' dummies are expendable! Exposure to mobs and angry throngs has always terrified the rich, as history so graphically records!

In times of social turmoil or extreme stress, the hyper-wealthy tend to panic, guilt! The first signs of unease are usually manifest as blame-laying or 'shuttle' accusations. Living in open society has always been fraught with the danger of marauding hordes. So, it's finger-pointing time in Caviar Park! The public must be appeased and who better to offer for sacrifice than the idiot President and his handler, soon to be dickless, Dick Cheney!

With full knowledge that the patient – Capitalism – is dead and is only kept twitching by life support and artificial stimuli, frantic manoeuvres are underway to shift focus, lay blame and save some very frightened executive arses – but alas, as history dictates it will all be in vain, the guilty will tumble like so many tenpins.

Global capitalism is haemorrhaging like a severed jugular; a previous post warned of the dangers of hyper-concentrations of wealth in too few hands. The increased speed at which those concentrations must 'work/move' in order to retain and INCREASE 'value' overwhelms. A point is reached where value can no longer be sustained due to the inability of the few to efficiently disperse wealth throughout large economies – money MUST work/move or it becomes valueless or "disappears," as it has no inherent value. PRODUCTION and the economic cycle create value – not shuffling paper and manipulative tricks!

In the distributed wealth model everyone is forced to either spend or save; growth and production are guaranteed, as the creativity required to invent/stimulate production occurs spontaneously and at RANDOM in any given population, hence the need for distributed wealth to foster opportunity and GROWTH. FREE education based on merit and achievement is imperative.

The equitable distribution of wealth – a traditional responsibility of government – engenders conditions and environments that enhance creativity! Credit stressed societies are characterised by self-destructive, escapist behaviour, as is evident today!

In the concentrated wealth model, money is appropriated by thieves, manipulators and cheats who lack the talents to stimulate social production and foster a more equitable, healthy and creative society, as is also evident today! The destruction wrought on the world by the bastion of deregulated, laissez-faire capitalism is horrendous and stands as the poisonous hallmark of a failed American/western system!

We do not oppose you on ideological grounds but on the basis that capitalism translates to wealth for the few and deregulated capitalism to obscene wealth for the very few. That model engenders division, violence and needless suffering, as recent history bears out.

I leave you to your well-deserved fate but do not doubt for a minute that I would hesitate – you know to what I refer and to whom I speak! However, my love of natural justice and my knowledge of REAL REMEDIES prohibit me divulging more to the criminals in power.

Justice will be served and the people will soon have their day!

WE are ONE

[China's economic problem is also the concentration of wealth in too few hands. The myth of America as somehow necessary for the global economy in the form of super consumer is ridiculous! Compare the population of America as consumer, 300 million, to China, 1.6 billion and realise that distributing wealth locally provides for steady growth. If the combined populations of BRIC are included, the superiority of the distributed wealth model is clearly seen.

America is 'dead wood' and will remain so for a long time. Its REAL debt is too terrifying for even their lying economists to divulge; nevertheless, in time all becomes known. Distribute wealth evenly if you would soften the impact of America's and the EU's criminal vandalism on the global economy.]
