

Another home grown catastrophe likely

Due to the 'thick' nature of the American public the powers are forced to emphasise a point in order to drive it home. However, the less thick international community easily detects and is alerted by 'overdone' remarks! Non-Americans view with extreme suspicion SIMILAR warnings from senior politicians of both major American parties.

It seems that a major 'event,' of a calamitous nature, is likely to occur soon after the presidential election! Such 'illustrious' personages (and war criminals) as Madeleine Albright and Colin Powell are in agreement regarding the prospect of an 'attack;' "there's going to be a crisis which will come along on the 21st, 22nd of January that we don't even know about right now," stated Colin Powell. The emphatic nature of that twisted sentence is cause for concern - 'there's going to be a crisis,' leaves little doubt -- Powell is certain of the outcome; however, note the twisted, contradictory manner in which the sentence ends, 'that we don't even know about right now!'

Powell's woeful American syntax notwithstanding, the message is not lost on the dumbarse American population or a very concerned international community that may decide to pre-empt a pre-emption. Americans are not the only lunatics in the world ready to plunge the globe into a nuclear nightmare. We may not wait for your home grown January black op. One pre-emptive catastrophe in Iraq is one too many! We have been pressing for a first all-out nuclear strike on continental USA for some time, and we do not do things by halves! You may wish to clarify your convoluted statement, Mr 'test tube' Powell, you have no idea of the alarm your very bad American grammar has caused!

More graphic details issued from the blabbering mouth of rambling buffoon, Joe Biden who compared Obama to JFK (hardly) when he stated, "Mark my words it will not be six months before the world tests Barack Obama like they did John Kennedy....Watch, we're gonna have an international crisis, a generated crisis, to test the mettle of this guy." Madeleine Albright concurred with Biden's 'statement of fact' and added that one must always be prepared for "something unexpected," like an orchestrated crisis!

Little doubt remains in the collective mind of the international community as to America's future plans. But true to form, the blabbering yank has invited a pre-emptive strike prior to the orchestrated, home-grown, pre-emptive, planned event - 'don't that just shit ya, Jethro?'

Perhaps a 'gentle' reminder of REALITY is required at this stage. Three major NUCLEAR superpowers exist in the world today, Russia, China and America; two of those superpowers have their nuclear arsenals aimed at the USA - game, set and match!

9/11 passenger jets that evaporate on impact (Pentagon) exist only in the minds of barn-dancing, banjo-playing, American idiots; the international community continues to rely on known LAWS OF PHYSICS to test the veracity of all preposterous claims!

We can't wait for the next stroke of 'genius' your (criminal) ruling elites are willing to display to a very savvy world. Who knows, they might KILL YOU next time, Jethro?

Good luck, you illiterate, gullible, mindless morons!
