

The $8.5 Trillion bet

A few weeks ago, I warned that the Dow would dive below 7,000 at the earliest by end of December 2008 and at the latest by the end of the first quarter 2009. Any responsible central banker would want to control a downturn, preferably by a gradual slide of the market as opposed to a sharp hard landing. However, events clearly indicate the current breed of financial handlers are irresponsible gamblers not prudent financial managers.

Their mindset is that of the ultimate gambler and nothing in this world will change their behaviour not even the prospect of shattered national economies and millions starving. These criminals are totally unconcerned by the potential devastating consequences of their actions. Anyone that continues to labour under misapprehensions that these individuals have our best interests at heart will be sorely disappointed.

The stock market and the derivatives market is their ultimate casino. Fix this in your mind in the months to come.

Global Financial Domination

The present global financial tsunami has given 12 elite global gamblers and perhaps 2 or 3 central banks the opportunity of a millennium; to confiscate unimaginable wealth, assume dizzy heights of power and reign supreme over the entire planet.

Since the massive injection of trillions into the major global banks by the FED, Bank of England and to a lesser degree the European Central Bank (ECB), many financial commentators and economists of all hues have been lamenting the fact that the banks are not lending as per the agreed aims of the "rescue package" but are instead hoarding the monies. Various reasons and excuses have been given to justify this massive hoarding -- unheard in the history of banking.

Bernanke and Paulson have been directed by the Shadow Money-Lenders to make the ultimate bet on the global casino - the playing of Trillion dollar chips.

This gambit is risky but they have been assured by "financial models" created by 'respected economists,' and Nobel Laureates such as Myron Scholes etc. that they will win, hands down!

Should the bet misfire, be assured the world will enter the dark ages for years to come. But the 12 chosen elite gamblers are primed and ready for the ultimate gamble and they could care less for our welfare.

$8.5 Trillion (no less) is the pot of money they are able to throw on the casino table. This sum is over half the GDP of the US, which has been estimated at US$13 Trillion. The global GDP is approximately US$60 Trillion.

There is no single entity in the world able to match their betting power. These elite gamblers are confident and determined to 'win' and win big! It should now be clear to all -- in view of the causes of the current global financial collapse -- that these scurrilous individuals view the global market as their personal Casino!

Their strategy is now completely divorced from the dynamics of the real economy and that should be cause for great ALARM.

The Ultimate Bet

What is uncertain and unknown is the timing of this Trillion dollar bet. By my estimation it could occur just before the 'crowning' of Obama on 20th January 2009.

The logic of these gamblers is that if they place their trillion dollar bets the markets will surge in one huge rally - redirecting or transforming the current chaotic global tsunami into a controlled event and funnel all available funds into their pockets/coffers.

The analogy of a real tsunami illustrates the point. The incoming 'wave' destroys everything in its path and the outgoing surge sucks everything light/fluid (money) back into the 'ocean,' leaving massive destruction of 'structures' in its wake!

Elite global gamblers are aware that the current financial crisis affords them the opportunity for financial conquest. Should the Dow decline below the 7,000 mark and other stock indexes dive in tandem, no force will be able to trigger a reversal of the trend.

The hoarding of Trillions in the coffers of the chosen elite (gamblers) is the equivalent to giving extra fuel or ammunition to financial terrorists to unleash even greater devastation on world markets!

How high the rally, I cannot forecast? But I am confident that this gamble will fail. Had this bet been played in late 2007, there was an even chance of success. But it is too late now for this gambit.

Given the situation and the desperation of the Controllers of the Shadow Money-Lenders, this all or nothing bet must be played. That is the current mindset.

Consider their gambit. You have $8.5 Trillion, maybe more. There is a chance to amass maybe US$100 Trillion or more on this one bet. If you fail, a slow but luxurious death awaits you. What would you do? To hell with the rest of the world, I will take my chances and even if I lose, I still have billions!

As stated earlier, they will fail. The Dow will surge, but will explode and dive with such ferocity that the world will suffer a massive economic 'heart attack' from the shock of the collapse. THE DOW WILL SINK LIKE THE TITANIC!

If you are a gambler and want to take a chance, go buy then sell at the top, but be sure you have insider information.

For the rest of us, start building bomb shelters!

You are all forewarned. Stop these financial terrorists before it's too late!
