It takes a major event/crisis to expose the REALITY and TRUE character of a nation and its people. The reality is usually light years from the myth, as America currently exemplifies. Home of the 'brave' and land of the 'free' couldn't be further from the truth!

Get a handle on the latest display of TRUE, chicken-shit America and its submissive population.

In the face of the most flagrant and arrogant display of disdain demonstrated by financial elites for the people, the executives of FAILED insurer AIG have paid themselves over $250 million in bonuses from monies -- and this is the acid in the wound -- received from average taxpayers to save the company from ruin! How's dem apples, you doodle dumbfuck's?

Home of cringing cowards and cowering slaves should be the new refrain for the paralysed Obama (puppet) government and cringing people of America.

The level of contempt financial elites exhibit for the people and government is beyond measure. They are able to brazenly behave in this manner simply because they own the government (and the nation) YET the people are endowed by their Constitution with the legal authority to remove exactly these incompetent, thieving, parasites from their positions of influence and power or anyone else that clearly threatens the national interest; the entire Bush regime for example - how do you think you got into this mess in the first instance, doodle's?

The onus and responsibility falls DIRECTLY onto the shoulders of the braying, bleating, whimpering, population - that's the long and short of it and I defy anyone to challenge that very obvious FACT!
