

Politicians under direct attack: the times have changed

by birdie Monday, Dec 14 2009, 6:59am

international / human rights / commentary

If day follows night the growing trend of direct attacks on corrupt politicians will shortly be followed by direct attacks on the forces that control them. CORPORATISTS should follow the lead set by Goldman Sachs executives who have armed themselves in the event of a populist uprising against them - imagine that?

Italian PM, Silvio Berlusconi

Perhaps people are now TARGETING THOSE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE BULK OF THE WORLD'S WOES rather than wasting their time voting for puppets and front-men.

Not a single western leader has been arrested for war and other crimes against humanity to date; each successive puppet leader dutifully protects those that preceded him - some people may come to the conclusion that major parties, regardless of outward opposition, serve the same ruling elite - imagine that? The world is no longer beguiled by brazen propagandists like Murdoch or two-horse political races by political parties that serve the same interests!

I thought nothing of the recent attack on the South Australian Premier, whose bashed and bruised face was brandished all over the Oz mass media UNTIL the thoroughly corrupt Italian PM, Silvio Berlusconi, sustained a broken nose and two broken teeth after another direct attack by a man described by the media as having a history of 'mental illness,' naturally! Anyone that attacks corrupt, puppet politicians must be 'mad' (as hell!)

Yesirree Bob, social tipping point has been reached and people everywhere aren't going to take it anymore! Why the fuck should they when Corporate corruption is RIFE and extends to buying political leaders who pretend to REPRESENT THE VOTING MAJORITY - what a laugh!

The two latest assaults emanated from Australia and Italy respectively, so no firearms were utilised in the attacks but not so in the land of star-spangled rustics who shoot first and then shoot again. One can only wonder what fate awaits FRAUDS like Obama and Gordon Brown of the UK.

It seems the price of narcissism and megalomania has just increased. A violent attack in the near future on a public figure in the US is almost certain.

🔊 Hey Joe -- Jimi Hendrix

<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/europe/8411318.stm>

Cleaves Alternative News. <http://cleaves.lingama.net/news/story-1751.html>