

Kevin 'mad cow' Rudd, lifts ban on Beef Imports

by bluey Saturday, Feb 27 2010, 9:58am

national / social/political / commentary

Washington is well pleased with its Australian LACKEY

After re-introducing REGRESSIVE INFORMATION CENSORSHIP and bypassing safety assessments to rush through the installation of DANGEROUS full-body X-ray scanners at Australian airports, we couldn't imagine Rudd opposing the wishes of the public again. However, in a move guaranteed to make him a target for assassination, Rudd, against the wishes of growers, retailers and consumers (everyone), is lifting the ban on Mad Cow Beef imports! This is perhaps the most overtly contemptuous gesture Rudd has ever displayed toward the Australian public. A PM that totally disregards public opinion in favour of foreign interests (U.S. beef industry) is CLEARLY a traitor and should be tried for treason in an Australian court!

Such traitorous behaviour and contempt for the Oz public clearly indicates that Rudd serves minority interests - will someone please put this traitor on trial for treason or just 'shoot the cunt' and relieve the nation of the most dangerous LACKEY PM that has ever taken office!

Rudd is sick; his need to continually defy the Australian people and oppose LOCAL business interests is symptomatic of a severe pathology. ABSOLUTELY NO ONE approves of lifting the ban on Mad Cow Beef! Yet Rudd, who seems to take perverse delight in exposing the nation to UNNECESSARY RISKS, is about to allow the importation of Beef to Oz from Mad Cow infected countries. I am speechless, so I'll let my 'feet' do the talking -- straight to Canberra with truckloads of fresh cow manure.

Make your PROTEST KNOWN, enough is enough!

A [Labor] backbencher said Mr Rudd was dragging the whole party down because of his mistakes. "When he's in the shit, we're all in it," he said.

<http://tinyurl.com/yzcjwsv>