Former and current Australian politicians who have clearly been bought by BIG Business have lined up in criticism of Tony Abbott's new tax on Big Business to support his radical parental leave initiative. We have covered reprehensible criminal and Wall St servant Paul Keating's criticism in a previous article. However, former conservative treasurer, Peter 'supercilious prick' Costello, remembered as the man who lacked the guts to fight for his party's leadership, joined the fray later this afternoon in SUPPORT-- wouldn't ya know it - of Kevin Rudd and BIG Business - LOL!

Costello, known locally as the man who couldn't 'aim up,' has clearly been ordered to line up behind Rudd and attack the man that is attacking BIG Business, though both Costello and Abbott have conservative allegiances - further proof that the two-party political divide is a charade served to the public to give the illusion of democracy!

Today's extraordinary outbursts from offended former and current politicians highlight the reality that Corporatists run the country! Consider just ONE Corporate example, BHP-Billiton pilfering our dwindling artesian water resource FREE OF CHARGE since 1982 while every citizen pays water rates! Would anyone care to total the annual profits of the world's largest miner over the past 20 years then take its board of directors outside and shoot the bloody lot of 'em - fair 'bloodsucking' go!

Transnational Corporations that have been raping our nation for years are screaming foul when confronted with the PROSPECT of returning a miniscule fraction of their plunder/profits to the PEOPLE!

The combined profits of BIG Business in Oz over two decades amounts to TRILLIONS of dollars, most of which is never returned to the people. What Abbott unintentionally did with his parental leave policy was to expose the nature of Realpolitik in Australia and my, how it reeks of corruption and puppetry!

BIG BUSINESS, fuck you! Consider yourselves lucky it's only a parental leave subsidy; it could have been a fixed percentage tax that returns a fair percentage of profits back to the nation and its people!

In the prevailing climate of rogue Banksters destroying world economies and evading penalty,

Reserve Banks printing toilet paper money in futile attempts to recoup stolen funds, we would have thought it prudent not to complain, but you arseholes just can't help yourselves, you never could, and therein lies your Achilles heel/DEMISE!

Please, continue pushing your luck, it serves to expedite the inevitable by highlighting the rotten, servile, TRUTH of Oz politics.
