

The 'most Dangerous Man in the World'

According to the Pentagon, the most 'dangerous man in the world' today is an Australian by the name of Julian Assange! That's quite a claim from an American Institution that has recently voided its credibility by releasing a commercial evaluation of the natural resource wealth of invaded Afghanistan - makes you wonder what the Corporate sector is doing if the traditional military focuses on commerce and wealth. [Planning the next war, perhaps!]

Julian Assange -- you can't buy publicity like this!

In its new role as a Corporate mercenary organisation, the Pentagon Pty Ltd has accused the founder of Wikileaks, Julian Assange, of the heinous act of RELEASING ACCURATE INFORMATION on his website. Put another way, it seems the Pentagon is averse to the TRUTH.

Anyone that would dare speak the truth in the land of propaganda, lies and mass deception, is immediately labelled a 'dangerous' person by US authorities - does anyone NOT SEE the absurdity of the situation or should we focus on the question of exactly why an 'honest, law-abiding' American Institution would have something to FEAR from the Truth.

The (leaked) video depicts the American military committing the war crime of murdering civilians in Central Asia (where it continues to wage its criminal wars). The video was sourced from Pentagon archives and leaked to Wikileaks by a soldier who rightly experienced a 'crisis of conscience' - the poor boy in question actually believed America was the good guy!

Thanks to Julian Assange the truth is now available for the entire world to see - perhaps now we can concentrate on bringing American war criminals to trial rather than entertaining their inverted 'logic.'

Unconfirmed (FOX 'News') sources say that the Pentagon has dispatched the Red Queen and Mad Hatter to apprehend Julian Assange and place him on trial for the crime of disseminating the TRUTH!

Have a nice day!
