State of Play

is it just a game, a dance?

One manifesting as many (facets) appearances, a children's playground

'only' a game, my dancing, Lover/God?

a game, perhaps, my consort but never a trifling matter -light spurts from the crown of my head!

swirl, dance and step with me; begin with moderation and culminate in blinding ecstasy – watch the cosmos swoon, pulse and scintillate, is it just a game?

rhythmic, dancing whirling bodies moving [in] cyclic patterns weaving time back in/on itself forcing it to to destroy and create according to our design, my eternal companion. never separate or break our embrace allow all things to pass without a remorseful sigh, second glance or sad regret; it's just a game spawning and destroying worlds a matter of play, a state of flux.

revive urself on my supine body, raise my trident in your spine stir/produce ambrosia in your sacred chalice;

are we not inseparable locked in perpetual bliss creating and destroying worlds, together?
