international / prose/poetry / literature

thoughts translate easily onto paper
others labour to become reality

my pen
completes the last letter of the last word, "d"
of a poem
then abandons the page

rain gently intrudes
on the silence
pit pat,
pitter patter,
under a grey sky

inside
a cat curls
and sleeps
at my feet

streets become shiny
with water
reflecting all that the world appears to be
