

Be Wise, be Careful, and be Devastatingly Effective

Can you blame the youth of the world for resorting to violent tactics in Europe and fighting fire with fire? It is understandable; however, it plays into the hands of the ruling elites and gives them EVERY excuse to tighten their already constrictor-like grip on our liberties and freedoms.

Paris Hilton

The most effective actions are 'soft,' withdrawing support permanently, boycotts etc, these tactics PERMANENTLY change the status quo. Youthful inexperience sees street riots and loud boisterous demos then everybody going back to work on Monday! Think about the real effectiveness of those tactics! You cannot change a system by subscribing to it; support MUST be withdrawn permanently if REAL CHANGE is to occur.

Today we live in perverse, inequitable social systems controlled by vile, criminal, MINORITIES. It is they who quiver and quake at the prospect of effective RESISTANCE and permanent CHANGE. Labour strikes were once an extremely effective means of maintaining social equity but alas, no more; the unity required to form unions was effectively attacked and displaced with the opportunistic, hedonistic, 'ME' ideology exemplified by the likes of Paris Hilton and her empty headed, decadent associates - moron little rich kids, that gain notoriety by cock sucking, how original!

Nevertheless, an entire (now lost) generation 'Y' emulates the vacuous and WEAK ideology of 'me, me, me' and social unity has paid the price; unions have never been weaker; notwithstanding the negative impact of internal corruption among union officials.

NEW paradigms are required, social phenomena that inspire spontaneous unity among the population, forces that inspire resistance and galvanise society into action at the least hint of corruption and overt CRIMINALITY from our institutions of power.

Today criminal elites have taken control of ALL western democracies, they BRAZENLY commit war crimes and other crimes against humanity without the least fear of reprisal because they KNOW they have society DIVIDED, therefore powerless to act decisively.

These vile criminal groups have such contempt for the masses they now openly shit in the faces of ALL our Legal and moral institutions, gloating all the while over their 'success' and OUR inability to resist. However, an indication of the HUGE pool of frustrated social energy that exists just under the surface of servility was revealed by the actions of WikiLeaks and its founder Julian Assange in taking on the most powerful and criminally corrupt forces on the planet.

People, on a global level, spontaneously rallied behind the forces that DEFIED the criminal status quo. The ruling cabals immediately went to work distracting, re-directing social energies away from explosive resistance to a media circus and spectator sport, thereby transforming a potential global army for social CHANGE into passive voyeurs of sordid sexual intrigues and icon/hero worship, yes indeed, we ARE so stupid, puerile and easily distracted!

But an evolutionary social energy continues to grow fed by the FRUSTRATION of our inability to prevent the outrageous and heinous injustices that confront us daily. That growing energy MUST find expression sooner or later and judging by recent global events, I would think sooner rather than later.

The overwhelming desire for real change must soon be realised; the forces that currently manage and distract the masses are finding it more difficult by the day to distract and obfuscate.

A GIANT dam of explosive social energy is READY for exploitation by someone a little smarter, more COMPASSIONATE and of STRONGER moral fibre/character than Assange, a not so uncommon animal these days.

There is a certain inevitability to the entire social process; surely the astute criminal cabals realise that it is THEY that inadvertently supply the energy and stoke the fires for dramatic social change.
