

Gillard: Beckoned to Washington to formally approve US Military Expansionism in the Region

And like the servile lackey she is, Oz PM Julia Gillard fell over herself to grant every U.S. wish without proper deliberation or parliamentary debate -- notwithstanding the FACT that America's civilian killing record to date easily qualifies it as the WORLD'S LEADING TERRORIST STATE -- fact!

Oz politicians need to face some home truths regarding the USA's criminal activities over the past decade and then consider carefully whether or not it is really in Australia's best interests to maintain what is clearly a ONE-SIDED, subservient relationship with the USA. But there was no time for deliberations it was all 'yesirree boss,' whatever Uncle Sam wants of CANBERRA, Uncle Sam gets. Gone are the days of independent leadership in Oz -- a situation that can be rectified overnight.

Gillard responded to pointed questions that her visit to Washington was to rubber stamp AMERICAN MILITARY EXPANSIONISM in the region. Asked if she had come under pressure to comply with US wishes to have a permanent military presence/base, Gillard stated that pressure was not required as SHE was "enthusiastic" to make Oz a nuclear target in the event of a conflict or war with Asia/Russia - whether she cared to reflect on this issue or not.

Gillard imagines that it is her duty to comply with Washington's every demand and continue the traitorous relationship established by 'deputy sheriff' Howard and followed by 'hair dryer' Rudd.

Fair dinkum; red blooded Aussies of the past would be up in arms over the blind compliance of our recent 'leaders.' But it has just been made plain to me that sycophants are always 'enthusiastic,' it's the nature of the loathsome beast.

Here it is in her own words: "There is no sense of pressure here, there is a sense of enthusiasm," she responded, as only a SYCOPHANT would! "We are well used to joint facilities in Australia [but not a PERMANENT third world, occupation style military BASE] . . so we are enthusiastic and I believe the United States is enthusiastic about looking at ways we can further that co-operation into the future." She even rolled out the red carpet for future expansionism with her response - going to these lengths makes you wonder whether Oz made the right decision abandoning the death penalty for treasonous politicians and other high ranking government officials.

This woman is about as compliant and nauseous as they come - good choice for 'colonial governor,' Washington, but A VERY BAD CHOICE for a REPRESENTATIVE Oz LEADER -- pity about Mark Arbib's exposure on WikiLeaks, he would have made and even better lackey in the future.

Readers will note that Gillard's compliance is America's way of intervening in our affairs without involving the democratic process or parliamentary debate. But as Abe Lincoln once said, "you can't fool all of the people, all of the time."

The reality is Australia is soon to become a fully occupied colonial base with a permanent contingent of troops, support personnel and tactical military ordinance. Not an advantageous prospect for Oz, as we have always maintained a certain degree of independence which enabled us to form many diverse relationships with regional neighbours; this approach in stark contrast to America's fanatical unipolar world view.

However, would anyone expect Gillard to behave any other way in view of her politically suicidal compliance with the Goldman Sachs designed Carbon Tax model.

The up-side is that Labor is losing ground in all the states and will continue to lose ground federally. Labor has become the last choice of disillusioned voters who once had a people's party to represent their interests. It's all down hill for Labor both federally and in the States, just watch the coming slaughter in NSW.

Gillard would do Oz a great service if she remained in Washington permanently.
