Semen, semen, everywhere and all the maids did shrink; semen, semen, everywhere and not a case to stick! In what now amounts to a clean removal from political and economic power – threat to the French presidency and IMF operations -- Dominique Strauss-Kahn is now set to walk from suspicious 'rape' and sexual assault charges; the case against him is collapsing in tatters on the luxury hotel's, semen-stained floor. Clearly, overkill is not required, DSK has been effectively neutralised and the world's ruling elite seems averse to crucifying one of its own – though the arrogant, maverick, Frenchman caused much grief with his refusal to implement harsh economic austerity measures in Europe. Plans by elite central Banksters to debt-shackle weak European nations cannot be compromised.

Dominique Strauss-Kahn in Court

There just isn't enough to go around these days, especially considering the immeasurable greed, avarice and decadence of Banking elites; they have the view the WORLD is THEIR oyster and DSK's moderate, socialist tendencies were not compatible with their plans!

The prosecution has advised defence attorneys for DSK they have grave concerns regarding the credibility and veracity of their client's sexual assault claims. It has been revealed that the maid had large sums of monies – up to $100,000K -- deposited in her personal accounts, nothing suspicious here said the wombat to the echidna, but shouldn't we be looking for the sources of those funds, as the existing story that 'drug addicts' deposited the funds just doesn't cut it -- does it, gentlemen?

The entire CFR media beat-up story of RAPE and the unusual refusal of bail in the circumstances had the DESIRED EFFECT. Strauss-Kahn's character assassination is complete and there is no need for the ruling elite to crucify one of its own. DSK has effectively been eliminated from the race for the French presidency, leaving Washington/Wall St. favourite, Sarkozy, in the clear. Moderate economic views and policies on Europe's (created) economic crisis have also been eliminated. Central Banking cartels are free to implement their fascist economic policies (debt slavery) for weaker nations, so it's goodbye Dominique and a lesson to others that may wish to depart from the plan! [Onward to Syria!]

In conclusion I would add that ruling elites of the past were far more adept at secretly handling their nefarious affairs -- today's clowns cannot turn a trick without exposing their underwear/plans to the world. The whole affair is ridiculously OBVIOUS. One wonders how much longer these clearly incompetent ruling clowns could hope to endure.
