Money is seldom lost, it is usually funnelled.

If you ever wondered where all the money goes while nations are failing, look to the manipulators that produce nothing substantial but juggle, shuffle, trick and manipulate. The result is the obscenely rich and opulent plutocracy and elite insiders.

What matter is the debt ceiling crisis or a failing national economy for those who have more wealth than some small nations? Consider this small statistic from the following video: "In 1985, there were 13 American billionaires. Today, there are over 1000."

There seems to be two separate economies in the US; the super rich get richer while the rest of the nation gets poorer -- this situation is clearly indicative of criminal cartel or insider activity. Operations may technically be legal, however, we should not forget that the mega-rich buy 'justice' as they do everything else. Loophole anyone?

Enjoy your shit sandwich while you're viewing this video.

O, I almost forgot, the mega-rich pay the least in Taxes -- that's fair ain't it, Jethro?
