This situation is amusing to some analysts who know that the 'winner' of the Iraq intervention is Israel. Unlike the public, analysts do not have short memories or suffer from bias induced blindness. It was clear that following the missile attacks on Israel by Saddam Hussein, Zionist interests were compelled to remove this dictator from power and eliminate any further threat from Iraq. It was relatively easy to lure the 'avaricious pig' to the trough of Oil - a brilliant incentive to invade and eliminate Saddam.

It would seem that Bin Laden intentionally timed his announcement to favour Bush in the elections. [The perfect 'choice' to lead the US to disaster.] The latest assault on Fallujah would confirm an overall strategy by the Arabs to lead the US into a military and economic quagmire. The monetary cost of the assault on Fallujah already spells victory for Arab guerilla fighters (most of whom have already withdrawn to fight another day.)

Interesting to note at this stage is the announcement made by the Vice-President of the World Bank, Michael 'Klein,' who felt the need to remind the US of its astronomical national debt (and indirectly draw attention to the inability of the US to secure the Oil - which was the 'currency' promised as payment of a debt which now appears to be unrecoverable.

This situation is amusing to some analysts who know that the 'winner' of the Iraq intervention is Israel. Unlike the public, analysts do not have short memories or suffer from bias induced blindness. It was clear that following the missile attacks on Israel by Saddam Hussein, Zionist interests were compelled to remove this dictator from power and eliminate any further threat from Iraq. It was relatively easy to lure the 'avaricious pig' to the trough of Oil - a brilliant incentive to invade and eliminate Saddam. The loudest voices in favour of the invasion (if you would re-collect) were Wolfowitz, Perle, Rumsfeld - and what do these men have in common? Home run to the Israelis! A classical (and obvious) political strategy deployed by the Israelis; however, neither the Zionists nor the Americans could predict the shrewdness of Arab retaliation. The result of underestimating an enemy is defeat! If you wish to know how to successfully fight Muslim forces ask the people of the Balkans. They have five hundred years experience fighting long wars of attrition against a cunning and shrewd enemy. But thanks to the bombing of Belgrade by Bill Clinton and NATO, another ally was lost.

But I digress, the most humorous aspect of the present debacle is that Jewish interests seem to have 'shot themselves in the foot' - if the reader would care to investigate who is actually behind International Finance and world banking it may prove interesting if not amusing. Michael 'Klein,' of the World Bank was forced to make a public statement; this is usually not necessary as most 'dealings' in these circles are secretive and private affairs. The reason Klein 'went public' is the renowned strategist and economic genius (Bush) is not listening! It has all 'gone to his head.' Do not forget that he truly believes that he is on a mission from God (the fourth blues brother.) Combine his 'mission' delusion with his parochial cultural background and you have 'Wyatt' Bush on a Crusade! The American people have recently confirmed that he does not live in a demented dream world. The puppet has loosened his strings.

No one can accurately predict the destructive course this lunatic will take, but it is now clear that it's all over now Uncle Sam. Not to be missed however, will be the hilarious antics of International Finance and Jewish financial interests scrambling to collect their money. But 'Wyatt' has a plan, and it may not include you!

The above observations may or may not be 'true,' but what is profoundly clear is divisionism, for whatever reasons, always lead to ruination.

Footnote:

If China resists all provocations to enter into any military conflicts - ascendancy is assured.

Such is the Art of War.
