'Whatever goes around comes around' or the Pauline, 'God is not mocked, for whatever a man sows, that will he reap'. The one positive aspect of long term Presidents and Prime Ministers is they usually catch what they have thrown and in that sense Bush is catching a huge amount of shit mixed with blood. Even a cretin like Bush is able to understand where the neo-cons have taken him, to the halls of the world's most infamous and inept political leaders. A self-respecting Japanese leader would have committed suicide by now but the world knows an American coward and moron when it sees one, and what a tragic and pathetic sight it makes!

Loser

One million innocent civilian deaths are difficult to ignore, as is a deficit blowout in the trillions of dollars and a failing credit economy. When questioned regarding any positive contribution Bush and the neo-cons have made no answers are forthcoming from supporters - name just one positive contribution to the world and/or humanity that a decade of Bush neo-con rule has made!

There have been beneficiaries however, Corporations in whose interests it is to prolong war and human suffering for the sake of profit; some corporations have made billions and continue to reap obscene amounts of money from human suffering. Could it be that after a decade in power the Bush regime has only human suffering, disaster and the profits of a few Corporations to show for its criminal adventures? That is the hard reality the American people presently face.

A tragic simpleton occupies the highest office in the land and the most nefarious criminals who have ever walked the floor of Congress continue to direct the course of the nation. Yet unlike any other nation the principles encoded in the Bill of Rights and the Constitution contain the cure not only for America but for the world! These documents are without peer as directing influences for any democratic nation - if only they were not ignored and in many instances, subverted by the present regime. It should now be obvious to all that the neo-cons are criminals deserving of the utmost punitive measures for their murderous and treasonous behaviour.

Take note John Howard and Tony Blair.
