

The democratic prerogative: whose world?

by fish Sunday, Aug 5 2007, 1:11pm

international / social equality/unity / article

What did you expect?

If you place liars and criminals in government do you expect justice and peace, or war, plunder and destruction? There is NOT one honest person today that leads a nation - all are corrupt, do you expect honesty and integrity from sewer rats? Liars and jackals reign supreme and occupy all the seats of power; do you expect consideration, fair treatment or cynicism and deception?

Capitalism equates with theft and manipulation, it creates horrendous inequities and allows the cunning to exploit the innocent, naive or trusting - equity, parity and fairness do not exist under capitalism. Communism is dead and its parent and arch-rival will soon follow. Be warned, withdraw all assets from the markets, the thieves are running with your money as I write. Capitalism cannot survive its foray into vacuum economics; its facades will very soon crumble - the world monetary system will become valueless almost overnight; and that night fast approaches.

Slow and dimwitted politicians have recently been advised to feign accessibility via the internet. Batteries of hand picked staffers filter questions and provide scripted answers. But we do have a single question that relates to all our leaders, would 1 million innocent civilian dead and 2 million displaced people constitute a holocaust or is it merely an acceptable cost for violent invasion and theft?

The world religions provide no peace or refuge; they are centres of institutionalised hate, fear and division - Truth's most vehement enemy is religion.

In any election would you continue to support liars and thieves or would you support integrity honesty, selflessness, fair play, parity and equity. Choose your candidate well or suffer continuing degradation, calamity and certain ruination.

Regardless of any other factors the major political parties no longer deserve your support. Your vote may be your last chance to remedy the situation. Today, the powers consider the democratic process a nuisance - the introduction of computerised voting allows for predetermined outcomes. Your options are fast disappearing.

Whatever you do, DO NOT SUPPORT MAJOR PARTIES!

The course to destruction is set; courage, character, perseverance and endurance are required to alter that course. In view of those requirements, ARE WE LOST?