

Pauline Hanson returns!

national / social/political / commentary

'Remember me, Mr Abbott,' would make a very appropriate comment from the Queensland rustic we all love to hate? Pauline Hanson is Oz racism, bigotry, intolerance, regression, division, insularity, xenophobia and parochialism rolled into a redhead. Call her what you will but don't dismiss her, she is walking gold for the independents and Labor.

Pauline Hanson

Guaranteed to ignite the moronic masses that would otherwise vote for Howard. This must be a setup! The only one who feels the pain is Johnny. Pauline is Howard without an education or the ability to lie like the devil. But she's guaranteed to steal his votes - who is responsible, that is what we wish to know? The question is, will the Libs be able to find a real Labor style man to steal the votes from weak as piss, Rudd.

Who would have thought? The forthcoming elections will prove to be one of Oz's most interesting and irritating; we anticipate more than two 'dark horses' upsetting the field -- a previous article hinted as much.

Smug and self-satisfied advisers and consultants on both sides took it for granted that it was their race alone - how does it feel not knowing who or when the next dark horse will make an entrance? First we take the Senate then we take Beijing, the symbolism of it all! Yep, you guessed it, I'm pissed from celebrating the demise of the Lib-Lab binary in Oz politics and this little self-indulgent piece is just another 'red' herring.

Stepping aside has just taken on new meaning -- we live in hope, don't we Peter? As for you Rudd, you have proven to be even more detestable than Howard - at least the evil little rodent had a go!
