

“Bonsai” Howard vows to lead his party to annihilation!

by yarra Monday, Sep 10 2007, 11:34am

national / social/political / commentary

I am informed that savvy Americans have labelled our little Aussie war criminal, “Bonsai!” How perfectly appropriate; like all rodent species John Howard is incapable of understanding anything beyond personal survival, to hell with consequences for the party I will/must survive, squeal, squeal!

Party colleagues are beginning to show concern for their own arses and political future as the most unpopular leader since, well, since no one, Howard is now the most unpopular leader in the nation's history, refuses to act for the good of his party – the ‘if I go then everything I built goes with me,’ spoilt-sport tactics of a psychological child is now threatening to destroy the entire political base of conservatism in Australia. Fantastic, Australia may be saved, hallelujah, there really is a God!

More power to the rodent for his myopic pursuits. Political annihilation couldn't happen to a more deserving bunch of lackeys and corporate manipulators than Howard's Oz conservatives! So we all should encourage our ‘fearless’ leader to ‘go for the doctor’ or ‘go for broke.’ Winning is “still possible,” Johnny, and don't let anyone convince you otherwise! Three cheers for our real live war criminal and American lap dog, hip, hip, hooray!

“Bonsai” Johnny, perfect!

[Students of psychology and psychiatry should study this phenomenon well.]

<http://www.news.com.au/mercury/story/0,22884,22399318-921,00.html>