

A Kalashnikov for Christmas

Today, the USA is without peer as the foremost terrorist organisation in the world. We should have known! Early efforts of two atomic bomb drops on civilian targets in Japan and carpet bombings of two million Indo-Chinese civilians have been challenged with the continuing mayhem and destruction in Iraq, which today 'boasts' a holocaust in progress as good as any other in history. Over one million dead civilians, four million displaced persons and a nation in ruin. Donald Rumsfeld was right for once in his demented life when he stated plainly to the world that U.S. invaders (military) were NOT nation builders - hardly surprising!

The world wasn't listening or concerned then, why should it be now? In the prevailing reality I have purchased a Kalashnikov sub-machine gun for Christmas - a "superb choice" for urban and guerilla warfare the vendor was quick to add. Had I changed so much that people now identified me as one of them? But what can a poor boy do [in the circumstances]?

It has become painfully clear the Law has failed the people, UN Charters, Geneva and other conventions are simply window dressing to feign civilisation - we are all brutes at heart. Laws and conventions are easily circumvented as needs arise! Nations and other power elites are doing as they please while our leaders impose draconian restrictions on local and worse on other populations - a "superb choice," indeed!

All these years as a pacifist have come to naught the sheeple are fit for the slaughter - they are bred for it.

When it (famine etc) strikes us all, mobs will devour each other in the most hellish fashion, so I guess my purchase is really the most civilised response in the circumstances. I thank my stars for the expert military training I received in Oz - a land that produces excellent fighters but miserable political cowards. In times of climate crisis (famine) the survival response favours constant movement and plunder. It has happened before; astute historical-climatologists have determined that aggressive Mongol migrations were the result of severe famine and desolation in traditional Mongol lands not a need to lead a very uncomfortable life as 'marauding hordes' spreading across the globe for the thrill of it!

Faced with slow starvation Mongol leaders developed superior military strategies and weapons technologies, which easily overcame their sluggish and unprepared enemies - they/we survived! Today, many Eastern Europeans and Asians carry telltale Mongol DNA.

Be advised, I make no apologies for killing you in order to sustain my family and group; it is OUR welfare and safety that is of importance, 'stop us if you are able' is the law today for nations and will soon extend to populations. Ignored peaceful solutions have a time limit and then become liabilities. The season of death and destruction is about to dawn, the likes of which has never been seen.

Do you think scurrilous cowardly types like Bush, Blair, Howard and their ilk are able to contend with REAL WARRIORS - not a snow flake's! YOU can bet YOUR life on that! SURVIVAL belongs to the fittest and the fittest today are the most capable and "CAPABLE" our leaders are NOT!

My son, who constantly grades above 85% and represents his school in sport, is able to dismantle and re-assemble my hand-gun as efficiently as my troops -- the Kalashnikov is for him!

Merry fuckin' Xmas.
