

Rebel groups and double standards highlight lawless world

by dingo Tuesday, Dec 25 2007, 9:05am

international / imperialism / commentary

Incessantly accusing Bush and his neo-cons of war crimes is clearly counter-productive. He has been comprehensively exposed for the WMD fraud and numerous other crimes. His actions have resulted in a human holocaust -- over one million innocent lives lost in Iraq yet international authorities and the public could care less. OUR complacency and INACTION give license to Bush and his ilk to pursue their crimes with vigour; it's open slather on just about everything - and don't they, the powers, know it!

Those who imagine the CIA tape scandal and Bush or Cheney's prior knowledge of the fact will in anyway impede the PNAC agenda are labouring under a massive misapprehension. It's REALITY TIME in dreamboat park, sheeple! Get a grip! Flogging dead horses doesn't win races. It's time to SERIOUSLY re-think strategies. How about shooting them on sight? Little joke, but it's an effective response in the circumstances and a proven strategy against war criminals and sociopaths who ply their nefarious trade with impunity.

But allow me to highlight yet another flagrant illegality to emphasise a point. The Kosovo Liberation Army (KLA) once accurately classified by Washington as a Muslim terrorist group are now lauded as heroes and freedom fighters by Washington, why is it so? Washington realised the KLA could be used to destroy Yugoslavia and now weaken Serbia. Well, fuck me rain, Jethro; don't that beat all - you dumb sepo (yank) fucks! What's new you say? The fuckin Kurdish PKK secessionist group that's what! No difference whatsoever between the KLA and the PKK except the interests of the U.S. fuckin A! Have we got it now sepos? CIA torture tapes my fuckin' arse!

Furthermore, by supporting/urging Kosovo independence every law in the book regarding territorial integrity has been broken - but who fuckin' cares this is the Bush and Rice roadshow touring the fuckin Balkans - fair fuckin dinkum, what are you clowns drinking over there?

You can scream impeachment and war crimes forever and it won't do a fuckin thing unless you translate your accusations into A-C-T-I-O-N.

If flouting the law is good enough for our fearless leaders then its good enough for us - that simple! Moreover, if killing one million innocent civilians is accomplished without punitive consequences then why can't we 'top' a few plutocrats and criminal politicians?

For fuck's sake!

"Home of the brave, land of the free" - YOU MUST BE FUCKING JOKING!