

Facing the interest rate incline

national / social/political / commentary

just an old fashioned love song

In anticipation of yet another interest rate hike a very brief history of Australia is warranted. This nation was built/developed by THE PEOPLE who enjoyed the fruits of their labour for generations. However, the past few decades have seen successive governments surrender the natural wealth of the nation to Transnationals, globalists and free market 'rationalists.' I would never have imagined the day I needed to remind the public what essentially constitutes a nation!

Who has stolen our wealth?

In its simplest form a nation is its land/seas (natural wealth) and its people (productive wealth). The land and its people constitute the entire wealth of a nation - the question of ownership is CLEAR! A nation's natural wealth belongs to its people NOT TO RAPACIOUS FOREIGN INTERESTS! How is it that hundreds of billions in profits no longer benefit the broader community? Minority interests drown in OUR wealth while the people suffer outrageous, crushing, debt-burdens!

Who would have thought that in "fair go," "egalitarian," Australia -- a highly educated and advanced society - a third-world model of resource exploitation and non-representative government would be adopted? But the facts speak for themselves; successive governments over the past few decades have become servile to Corporate interests at great cost to the community. These are the same corporate interests that have recently destroyed the western economy yet our 'fearless leaders' have no answer in the circumstances, have they, Kevin? Give us a fuckin' break, you gutless, little, visionless, no-talent turds who call yourselves our political leaders!

The people are easily able to cripple the PARASITIC BANKS by tactically stalling on loan repayments and employing other delaying tactics - banks and other institutions are in no position to be swamped with foreclosures and red-tape, capiche?

Did you think for a moment the people would accept their yokes and chains willingly; did you think that managing society via debt oppression would succeed? You forgot your own human failings of greed and corruption and INCOMPETENCE and now you face a most 'interesting' future. Your multi-million-dollar salary arrogance seems unjustified in the circumstances, doesn't it? That person bashing on your door is ME! It's time to justify or '...' what rhymes with justify?

It's been a BIG LIE all along, just another group of smart operators/cliques grabbing what they could and RUNNING -- for their lives! A predictable outcome, you have surrendered the people to the 'Grapes of Wrath,' as I knew you would! Who am I/we? Those who are able to stop tanks with toothpicks; it's a matter of balance, equilibrium and the weakest point, you dumb fucks!

Bringing it down was easier than anticipated, from the earliest days of 'outsourcing' and 'off-shoring' we realised the final result and [we] were easily able to locate the weakest 'links.' Down go the slathering, slobbering PIGS, its bacon rashes time! This is too funny, principally because it's too REAL!

We couldn't have done it without you. You supplied the means and weapons, we supplied only skill and character!

GREED IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR VISION, and cunning is no substitute for SKILL intelligence and CAPABILITY! What did you imagine would come of it, where did you think you were going? Nothing and nowhere, you should have known. Perhaps you did, you just lacked the character, the 'right stuff' to persevere to the end, to endure forever if need be and never surrender, never bend a knee to another in order to stand VICTORIOUS - you will excuse our exuberance, won't you?

Postscript:

This has been a rant, a spontaneous expression for your enjoyment, pure entertainment. An interrupted discourse the thread of which will no doubt be taken up by another in due course. Ya wouldn't be dead for quids, would ya, 'Kevin'?

Please, spare yourselves the trouble of traces and identity determinations; we're your next door neighbours, 'comin' down in three-part harmony.'

This is just too good; keep your eye on the ball gentlemen, you wouldn't want to lose the game, would, YOU?

Never forget we have our 'toothpicks' at the ready -- that's all it takes today!

Fearless leader, Kevin Rudd!
