

The Art of Distraction

by tide Wednesday, Jun 15 2005, 7:28am

international / social/political / other press

The most effective form of crowd control is distraction, from the Roman Colosseum to Mao Zedong's domestic steel furnaces, leaders of the past and present all understand that the focus of the masses should never be directed at government or its leaders. Few (if any) of today's leaders or governments could withstand the rigour of sustained attention from the population.

To a greater or lesser extent, every government is corrupt, inept, dishonest and at the mercy of large financial interests [that could care less for the people, the environment or anything other than their own perverse interests]. In the US we have the official policy of a 'non-existent' global warming crisis, created by the Oil lobby and other huge Corporate interests. The influence of Zionists and the ultra-conservative neo-cons is directly responsible for the attack on the founding principles of the Bill of Rights and the erosion of civil liberties. The pursuit of a pre-emptive illegal war (Iraq) based on lies, equals for its criminality, the appointment of a nefarious scoundrel, liar and sociopath (Wolfowitz) to the presidency of the World Bank, and on it goes.

No nation is exempt, and no population immune. Ariel Sharon of Israel announced recently that Jerusalem will never again 'fall' into the hands of "foreigners", does that sound a tad racist or that a future compromise is likely? Jerusalem will no doubt become a UN protectorate if ancient racist and barbaric theological notions are not kept in a historical context. But racist divisionism doesn't depend on the Old Testament God to dictate policy; Australia has revealed its white Australia sentiments during the Schappel Corby drug trial, proving that racism is also comfortable in a modern secular setting. Let's not forget Muslim terrorist leaders who always leave the suicide missions to rank and file members.

What propels the world to oblivion is the universal fool!

Raw courage is required to embrace each other in Unity. If you will see the filth and corruption that masquerades as your leaders then embrace each other as One. Their divisionism cannot withstand Unity and the Peace that is born of Harmony. See how they run.

Unity is Life, divisionism is death. Who would rob you of your Joy? Courage is its own reward but the reward for bravery is Bliss....

Dance Yesu dance
anoint my brain in ecstasy Yesu dance
scintillate endlessly rapture bellies to the core dancing God there is no more I am you
You are me
dancing blissful ecstasy

Magda serpent Goddess claim
In bursts of Joy
you reach my brain
tears of Bliss
caress my cheeks
forever more eternal peaks
Love bursts forth
unrestrained
embrace as One never tamed

Wipe my mind
snow white hands

roll in Splendour
dance on Dance.

We are One.

Peace.

http://www.seo-blog.org/7748_eye_of_horus/archive/31755_the_art_of_distraction.html

Cleaves Alternative News. <http://cleaves.lingama.net/news/story-88.html>