

A “lucid” Ramos-Horta calls for investigation

It is clear from the few statements made by the now conscious Ramos-Horta that he either has no recollection (prolonged induced coma) of events surrounding his shooting or he has been fed erroneous information. The possibility he has been coerced also remains high.

Jose Ramos-Horta

After FBI involvement in investigations we expected a palatable, neat and coherent story to emerge – whether that story has any bearing on the truth is the question. One of Reinado’s commanders has since surrendered to authorities ‘with a smile,’ indicating a deal has been made.

Ramos-Horta’s call for a full investigation indicates he has no idea who is actually responsible for the shootings -- he was ambushed from behind!

Textual analysts are easily able to arrive at truth by deconstructing lies – all lies are forced into a relationship with the ‘truth’ and it is that relationship that is deconstructed. It is simply a matter of applying highly effective analytic tools – the source of the anthrax letters in the USA was determined by a professional textual analyst not ‘security’ or ‘intelligence’ agencies!

Textual analysis provides a wealth of information as everything is reduced to semiotic signifiers. The more gross methods, DNA and bio-metric identification, utilised by our less competent agencies, provide markers only, not broader ‘pictures.’

We can hardly wait for the results of the ‘official’ investigation into what already appears to be a deliberate assassination attempt by western powers and inept Australian forces – it stinks gentlemen and you know it! Do your best at a cover-up, it makes no difference!

The Kovco death, for example, clearly involves a military cover-up -- no expertise is required to arrive at that obvious fact.

Unrelated to the above but clearly relevant is the latest figure of the national debt, now running at an astonishing $610 billion – is that figure an indicator of competent past and present government? ‘Who do you trust’ to run a wealthy nation and manage a relatively simple economy, certainly NOT the Liberal or Labor parties. No hoppers, the lot of them!

The current PM Kevin Rudd, faced with yet another interest rate hike, is bereft of real solutions. He is only able to re-state the reality to the people and lament his inadequacies.

Australian government no longer leads or represents the public it takes orders from those responsible for creating the economic problems in the first instance - whether its Howard and Costello or Rudd and Swan, we are witnessing fleas in action.

'I love a sunburnt no hoper
Bereft of required skills!'
