

Richard Holbrooke, back to the Balkans!

Richard Holbrooke, former US ambassador to the UN and broker of the 1995 Dayton 'peace' agreement that 'ended' the war in Bosnia, recently stated that the upcoming elections in Serbia would be crucial for the Serbian people -- no argument from Serbs on that point! However, his comments veiled his/America's real concerns for America's future 'tenure' in the region. Serbs have no illusions regarding Holbrooke's allegiances -- his track record speaks for itself [see pics!]

Analysts correctly interpret his comments as the desperate whimpering of failing empire. The current untenable situation in the Balkans is about to undergo another re-adjustment, but this time with 'real meaning!' Today the whole world -- especially Serbia -- is aware of the American plan to illegally appropriate Kosovo, install an illegitimate puppet government and establish a permanent presence/base in the Balkans. The problem with the American plan is that almost everything involved in its implementation is illegal -- damn shame you can't build a house on quicksand!

The panic in Holbrooke's statements is palpable. Hoping to send some sort of message to Serbia, Holbrooke said regardless of who wins the US presidential election, policy on the Balkans won't change -- VERY REVEALING, Richard! Thanks for confirming that US presidents are puppets of Transnationals, Oil Companies and other large Corporate interests -- the whole world already knows the Whitehouse is just another office of Halliburton! It ain't like the old days, mate; today even hill-dwellers are aware of America's criminal interventions in the Balkans!

Do you demented yanks really think you can run around the globe bombing and stealing what doesn't belong to you? I've got some news from Serbia, with love, FUCK OFF or prepare to DIE if you stay where you are not welcome!

America is facing retaliation all over the world, it seems it's not just the Serbs who have woken up to the truth; Iraq, Afghanistan and now nuclear Pakistan - whoa! Isn't it about time the yanks learnt that making enemies is a bad way to do business; take a tip from the Chinese who steal with a smile; business at the end of a gun is doomed to fail, Tex - especially in the Balkans.

You dumb American fucks, you couldn't have made a bigger blunder than trying to steal Kosovo! The Serbs would only ever unite over Kosovo. Faced with a Serbia united in purpose another front will open in Europe; just how many wars do you think you can wage simultaneously and how many idiot allies do you think will fight your UNNECESSARY wars for you? The Roman Empire tried that strategy just prior to its collapse -- interesting indicator isn't it?

Professional politicians and diplomats learn very early in their careers never to say never, but block-headed yanks learn NOTHING; "Kosovo is lost for good, and Serbia can now lose Europe for good as well," Holbrooke said! Serbia determines the fate of its territories not a bunch of moron yanks, you got that dickie boy? As for Europe, WE trust the lessons learnt over the centuries - we suggest your infant nation grow up and learn how to deal more effectively with mature European cultures, you bunch of rustic, mental deficient!

What is clearly evident with Holbrooke's comments is America's panic over the forthcoming Serbian elections. The first thing to learn about Serbs, Richard, is never attempt to intimidate them, they have 800 years experience with every form of intimidation known to humankind! None of it worked then so what makes you think your feeble attempts will work now? Regardless of political persuasion Serbs will never abandon Kosovo!

American lies just don't 'cut it' any longer; the world has woken up! You are already defeated you just don't know it -- a classic case of dead man falling!

I am a Serb, I know my heritage, my nation, my people and my land; only dimwitted doodle dandies would poke their stupid noses into Serbian affairs. My advice is quit while you're ahead with Iraq lest you lose everything - Pakistan is about to lose a nuke somewhere in the Middle East; let's all hope its not 'found' in Israel or somewhere in the USA!
